

I work for Weatherford, which is an oilfield services company. Weatherford has a promotional spice called "Weatherford Famous Seasoning" which is very well known in the Canadian oilfield.

For the past 8 years I have been working overseas on a rotational basis for Weatherford. I have worked in the Middle East, Asia, Europe and most recently Russia. Everywhere that I go I try to bring a few boxes of this spice as a handout. It is very well received by all who have been given it and quite often I am asked by customers to make sure that I bring more when I return.

Of all the different promotional items that I have handed out over the years, this is by far the most successful and always gets a positive response.

Thank you,
